

Gmarkets Introduces a New Fixed Income and Capital Markets Data Service in the United States, Appoints John Robinson as Director of Sales and Business Development

November 17, 2009 (TORONTO) – Gmarkets President and Chief Executive Officer Robin Hanlon today announced the appointment of John Robinson as Director, Sales and Business Development for the United States, based in New York.

Mr. Robinson is responsible for client development, product development, and strategy for Gmarkets' U.S. expansion. Mr. Robinson joins Gmarkets after 18+ years in the market data industry including roles at ActivFinancial, Sector (SIAC), Tullett Prebon, and Moneyline Telerate, and an additional 5 years in fixed income and bond sales.

"John, through his experience in the market data industry, has numerous contacts and strong, longstanding relationships within the community which will enable Gmarkets to further strengthen our offering and expand our content set to better serve the U.S. markets," said Ms. Hanlon. "His introduction of Gmarkets to the U.S. marketplace has been well received and is garnering very strong interest."

"Gmarkets products and services are amongst the most innovative in the financial market data industry since the creation of Moneyline over a decade ago," said Mr. Robinson. "Their success in Canada and enthusiastic reception in the U.S. shows that the market is ready for a commercially viable, cost-effective, and technically innovative alternative to other legacy solutions providers."

About Gmarkets Inc.

Gmarkets is a financial information company specializing in the delivery of real-time, global fixed income and capital markets data. Our flagship product, GMARKETS PILOT, is a real-time desktop workstation for financial professionals delivered via the Internet. Our other services also include high-speed data feeds. Gmarkets' real-time services cover bonds, money markets, foreign exchange, derivatives and exchange traded data. For more information, visit our website at www.gmkts.com.

For more information please contact:

Robin Hanlon

416-363-9743

robin@gmks.com